are made in the background. I want to know how I can get the response everytime the AsyncTask is executed? for example, lets say that I have a class called "UserService" which calls a web service using AsyncTask.

public class UserService { public UserService() { } public User getUser(String id) throws IOException { // some code to get the response return response; } }

Is there a way I can get the response from getUser() function? A: You can use a handler and register it with the AsyncTask. Something like this:

private class GetUserWorker extends AsyncTask { private String id; @Override protected void onPreExecute() { // Use the id to get the user // Do what you need to do String user =... } //... @Override protected void onPostExecute(Void result) { // Do what you need to do with the user } } AsyncTask.execute(String, String, String, String, Handler, Runnable) will do the work and onPostExecute will run in the main thread.
